INNOCENT JOHN.

John Dennis of the Tuscarora Times-Review comes back as follows:

Go from home if you want to hear the news. The Reno Gazette says: "The Democrats are settling down to Cassidy for the Senate, and Dennis for Congress." One of the above named, at least, is not conscious that he is being settled down to or on very heavily by anybody.

How is it, Senator, is Barkis willin'?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is a quiet rumor from San Francisco that a vigorous and formidable boom is being worked up by the Democracy on this coast, in the interest of Justice Field, for the nomination for the Presidency. Mr. Field's friends claim that in the event of his nomination, his brothers will furnish a bigger "bar" of "usufruct" for campaign purposes, than was put into the contest in 1876 by the sage of Gramercy Park.

The Boston Herald thus refers to some of the Long Branch wells: "Over yonder, in dainty mull, is the wife of a face powder; going down the hallway are the two daughters of a soothing syrup; and the swell who drove past a few minutes ago, in a dog-cart tandem, was a son of a pill."

It takes all sorts of stories to make a newspaper. The Carson Appeal has this one:

The latest find at the State Prison is a petrified rabbit with a snake coiled about it. The find was made at a depth of ten feet, in the sandstone foundation.

Vigilantes at Work.

ODEN, Aug. 26.
 A Park City special says: At a late hour last night a number of masked men stopped engineer Thomas, roadmaster Hughes and a fireman in the employ of the Utah Eastern Railroad and compelled them to return to the shops, and taking an engine and caboose, and run about 30 miles distant. Leaving a number of men in charge of the train the vigilantes proceeded to the county jail, and bringing their guns to bear on the officers, they obtained control of the jail, and taking a man named Jack Murphy from his cell, returned to the train and ordered an immediate return to Park City. Upon arriving here the vigilantes took Murphy and hung him to a telegraph pole near the station, the body being viewed by a number of passengers on the early train. Murphy was arrested on suspicion of having shot Brennan last Wednesday, and confined in the jail awaiting trial.

Death of a Pioneer—A Fatal Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 27.
 General A. M. Winn, the first Mayor of Sacramento, died at his residence in Sonoma county yesterday morning, aged 73 years. He was the founder of the "Sons of Revolutionary Sires," and the "Native Sons of the Golden West." The funeral takes place to-morrow at Sacramento.

Yesterday afternoon a pair of horses attached to a horse, ran away and demolished the horse, and instantly killed one horse, and inflicted injuries on John W. Reid, the driver, of which he died in a few hours. The accident occurred in front of the Chronicle office, where the horses ran into the post supporting an electric light.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

[PRESS DISPATCHES TO THE GAZETTE.]

Looks Like a Conviction.

KANSAS CITY, August 26.
 The day has been a quiet one, marked only by the discussion of the status of the Frank James case. The impression is general and growing that Dick Liddell's testimony given yesterday will prove a clincher, if corroborated in a majority of details, and this, the prosecution proclaims, it is prepared to do. Dick's story has been confirmed as to events in Tennessee, by witnesses from that State. It is generally considered that the State is making out a strong case, but the defense will make a strenuous effort to break down Liddell's testimony when their turn comes. James received a good many callers at the jail to-day. The belief is positive that Frank intended giving up train robbing, and was in earnest in seeking an honest livelihood near Nashville. The capture of Bill Ryan alarmed the gang, and having "lit out," as Liddell expressed it, Jesse undoubtedly persuaded Frank to go into the business. Hard luck at farming may also have had something to do with it.

A Brutal Murder.

SAVANNAH, Ga., August 26.
 Henry Hertel and wife, (German), shopkeepers, were found to-day murdered in their store. Customers were to the store this morning, and found it closed. Peeping through the blinds, they saw Hertel on the floor, in a pool of blood. The door was burst open, and the man was found in the middle of the room, with a handkerchief tied over his eyes and his skull crushed in. His wife was found in a calico wrapper, lying on a sofa in the parlor, with her throat cut and one arm nearly severed. An immense crowd collected, and the police were notified. Hertel was supposed to have a large sum of money.

An Unaccountable Suicide.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.
 Last night a well-dressed girl about 20 years of age left the street car at the Stock-yards bridge, placed her hat, parasol and gloves upon the railing, sprang into the water, and after rising twice, was seen no more. To-day the apparel was recognized as that of Miss Aggie Patterson, a niece of Alderman Patterson of this city. No cause is known for the act, although the young lady had once manifested a tendency of mental aberration. The body is not recovered.

A Fatal Railroad Collision.

CINCINNATI, August 27.
 The Times-Star, at Steubenville, says an accident occurred on the Panhandle road this morning, near Meno Junction, and within one hundred yards of the great disaster of 1878. The east-bound freight, ten minutes late, collided with the Cincinnati express and passenger train, which was on time. Both engines and one postal car were wrecked. Engineer Charles Woolf, of Dennison, Ohio, and Clerk William M. Newman and John B. Holt, both of Indianapolis, were injured fatally.

A Railroad Accident.

GALVESTON, August 27.
 A Waco special says: The Texas & St. Louis south-bound passenger Saturday night, jumped the track, and the whole train, engine and all, landed at the bottom of a 15-foot embankment, wheels up. All the lights were extinguished, and the passengers groped their way out the best they could, and when they got outside and summed up the damages, it was found that only one person was seriously wounded, having a thigh bone broken and head badly bruised.

Killed in Self-Defense.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., August 26.
 Caleb Lincoln, a farmer living near Saginaw City, was instantly killed last night by his son Charles. The old man was addicted to drink, and when in liquor was very quarrelsome. Last night he went home drunk, and getting possession of a revolver, leveled it at his son, when the latter drew his own weapon and shot three bullets into the old man's head.

TROT, August 27.
 The convention of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union at Round Lake, closed yesterday. The services were largely attended, and addresses were made by Miss E. W. Greenwood of Connecticut, Mrs. Mary Shunt of Hyde Park, Mass., and President Mrs. Mary S. Burt.

A Downward Tendency.

NEW YORK, August 27.
 There was great depression on the Stock Exchange at the opening, and during the first 20 minutes prices dropped from 1/2 to 3/4 from the closing quotations Saturday. The entire list showed the downward tendency and there was a free pressure to sell.

Came to the Springs.

DETROIT, August 27.
 The evidence now is very strong to show that A. A. Atherton, County Treasurer of Roscommon county, has skipped with county funds to the amount of $18,000.
 —There were 17 deaths from cholera in Alexandria yesterday.

Prisoners Remanded.

LIMERICK, August 26.
 At the examination of Dr. Connelly and Patrick Connelly, the brothers arrested at Bruff, charged with being concerned in a murder conspiracy, a man named Michael Dinen testified that the Connellys had compelled him to swear he would shoot John Carroll, a rent warner of the Earl of Limerick, and promised him the Head Carrol would pay him £50 for so doing. He and the prisoners had laid in waiting several times for Carroll, but witness' courage failed him and he did not shoot him. The witness also swore that the Connellys had proposed poisoning Carroll and his sister. The prisoners were remanded.

About half a dozen of the Virginia City Knights came up from the Bay to-day.

A one-fourth interest in the Washoe Mill and Lumber business is offered for sale. Read 50-cent column.

Many of the farmers on Truckee Meadows are busy cutting their second crop of alfalfa, which promises a good yield.

A box from the Carson mint, containing 1,000 pieces of coin, went through by express yesterday, consigned to the First National Bank at Trinidad, Colorado.

D. C. Wheeler, who has been farming for 40 years, took his first load of wheat to mill this morning. He raised 200 bushels on four acres of his ranch, three miles south of town.

Ten thousand Knights Templar did stop over at Reno, and drank Cream Soda at Chamberlain's and Chase & Thyes, where the only genuine article can be had—all other is slop.

Perkins & White of the Palace Hotel, have proven that it is possible to make money in that business. The secret of their success is, a house conveniently located and faultlessly conducted.

Chielovich & Co., at the Wine House, have a beverage for any kind of weather, any condition of health, any time of the day or any social position. No patron of this house can help being satisfied.

The firm of A. Lindley & Co., the wholesale and retail grocers of this place, will sell a man a bill of goods so low, and take his money so politely, that it makes him feel as though the goods had been given him.

So long as F. Levy & Bro. do business in Reno, there is no economy in sending money to San Francisco or any other place, for dry goods. Put your money in sight and they will make you know the above is true.

In buying one of Knowles & Bainbridge's Westlake ranges, you get sufficient tinware thrown in to stock a kitchen, besides a saving in fuel. No case of divorce has ever been known where one of those ranges was in use.

Several of Reno's epicures have commenced the use of Thistle Dew whisky in their coffee, instead of milk; they say it is nearly as mild and more palatable and invigorating. A. Lindley & Co. are the sole agents for Reno and vicinity.

You never hear a man complain of hard times, who attends to his business as does J. J. Becker. No bums are allowed about his saloon; a customer can indulge in a glass of Fredricksburg beer without the annoyance of being struck for a treat.

The unfortunate leper now confined in the jail under a six-months sentence, for selling fire-water to the noble red man, is an unhappy mortal. He spends most of his time crying. His ferocious tears are mingled with the infectious matter from his running sores. He is cooped up in the court house wood-snead.

Nasby is completely installed in his new place of business, in the store formerly occupied by Doc Bowman, on Commercial Row. It is presumed that he moved Saturday evening, for it is not at all likely that so constant a church-goer violated the Sabbath by performing manual labor on that day. Read ad.

Is Being Benefited. Mrs. A. G. Hunter, the wife of the painter of this place, writes her husband from the Genoa Hot Springs that she is being materially benefited by the waters of that place. More than two years ago, in Colorado, Mrs. H. was bitten on one of her limbs, midway between the knee and ankle, by a common sawgrass wood-tick, the head of the insect remaining in the flesh and causing a very painful and troublesome sore, and producing a pretty dangerous case of pyemia.

A Good Month's Work. Phil Bates, the rustling logging foreman of the Truckee Lumber Company, at Camp 18, was in town yesterday. Mr. B. informed a GAZETTE reporter that he has put in over 800,000 feet of logs this month, and had it not been for the chow and forest fires, he would have made it a full million.

BRIMSTONE.

Where it Abounds and What it is Worth.

The Scientific Press has an interesting article on sulphur, which is found in only two places, on the coast. At Clear Lake, Cal., there are works capable of extracting six tons a day. A curious feature of this deposit consists in the occurrence of cinnabar, a notable percentage of which is found associated with the sulphur. The crude material here having been shoveled into wheelbarrows, was carried out and thrown into a furnace and there heated. Passing from this furnace into a receiver and then into large iron kettles where it was purified, the liquid mineral flowed into wooden moulds, in which it became solidified, and was then ready for market. All Reno remembers Rover, who was hanged here by Sheriff Lamb for a murder at the Sulphur mine, Humboldt county, Nevada. They are about 30 miles northwest of Humboldt station, on the Central Pacific. Though not much explored, these beds are known to be very extensive, several large bodies of high grade mineral having been opened up, and surface indications of a promising nature being met with over an area of several hundred acres. At several points bodies of nearly pure mineral 200 feet long, from 30 to 40 feet wide, and of unknown depth, have been developed.

The sulphur here occurs in strata, resting in a thin layer of ash-like earth, which, being scraped away, exposes in many places great masses of brimstone, so solid that some force is required to break it out. Large pieces are sometimes quarried here. A block weighing 1,200 pounds was taken out and started for the Centennial Exposition, but in reaching the railroad, was broken in pieces while being hoisted into a car. The company employs 20 men, all white, at three dollars per day and found, their operations continuing the year round without intermission.

While most of the sulphur made here has found a market in San Francisco, some has been disposed of to the local works and acid factories in Nevada. The Humboldt Company have expended on their property over $60,000 or $70,000. Sulphur is found

IN OTHER LOCALITIES.

Ten miles north of Humboldt, Salt Marsh, in Churchill county, Nev., is a sulphur-bearing bed covering some 30 acres. In the center of this tract occurs a crater-like depression, whence a strong odor of sulphur is emitted. As the locality is far from the railroad, difficult of access, and the country around exceedingly barren, but little is known of this deposit. It is likely to remain for long time neglected.

One mile and a half to the westward of that remarkable group of thermal known as Steamboat Springs, in Washoe county, Nevada, occurs a sulphur-containing belt, composed of a light colored formation resembling chalk or steatite, and underlain by magnesian limestone, traversed by small veins of iron and other minerals.

Imbedded in this formation are numerous small strata of sulphur, some of it quite pure, though the major portion is largely mixed with impurities. A good deal of labor has been expended here without remunerative results, the method of exploiting these deposits having been by shafts and open cuts, through which the sulphur was removed. Though located within a mile and a half of the

VIRGINIA AND TRUCKEE

Railroad, and otherwise favorably situated, no work has been done in these mines for several years past, the cost of collecting the crude material having been too great and its grade too low to warrant a continuance of operation. Near the Fish Lake Valley marsh, Esmeralda county, in the same State, is a bed of sulphur, apparently of considerable extent, but as it has never been worked, or even carefully examined, little more is known about it than the mere fact of its existence. Between Coso and Little Owens lake, in Inyo county, Cal., is a group of springs having the form of miniature mud volcanoes, about which occur deposits of sulphur, some of the surface exposure being quite pure. In the foothills of the Coast Range, at a point about 30 miles westerly from the town of Clifton, some by the powder works, there being also the usual requirements of druggists and manufacturers and miscellaneous consumers to be met.

The two principal acid works in California—the Judson acid works and the Golden City—use up annually in the manufacture of sulphuric acid about 1,000 tons of sulphur each; the three smaller acid works in California and one in Nevada use up, perhaps, one-fourth as much. With the exception of about 1,000 tons produced by the Humboldt company, the supply of this substance is obtained from Sicily, with an occasional cargo from Japan.

A KIND GOOD-BYE

St. Bernards Eastward—They Go Home Happy.

A GAZETTE reporter went to Verdi on the overland train this morning to meet the St. Bernard special, and treated the Chicago Sir Knights to an interview. Sir T. D. Williams of the Chicago Tribune was the first victim. He said that from the time the St. Bernards reached Truckee until they left San Francisco there was nothing but an ovation given them. They are enthusiastic in their praises of the kindness of the people of the Coast, both the Masons and other classes as well. All the Knights, so far as he has heard, feel perfectly satisfied with their treatment. Not a word of fault was found. He says they

TAKE THEIR DEFEAT

For the prizes cheerfully. The St. Bernards took an ovation and the friendship of the people, and the DeMalays took the prize. The St. Bernards got what they prized the most, but they would have liked both. A bystander spoke up and said it was very strange that the drill should have so many oblique movements in double quick time in it. It is an unusual maneuver, and yet by a singular coincidence both the other Commanderies were practicing it all week. He hinted that somebody had leaked. The St. Bernards trained in a 36 squad, and had to cut down to 24, which changed the positions. They had 36 men well-drilled at home, but only 17 of them came, so they had to get seven new men out of the Commandery. The party have all been well, except a touch of "California grip," which touched the throats of almost all. Some of them are infatuated with California. One man said he liked Denver better than either Chicago or San Francisco. The finest scenery was in Arkansas Canyon, on the Denver & Rio Grande, and the next on the American.

Drive Down the Nails.

If property owners or leasees would imitate Pechner and Lachman by driving down the protruding nails and cutting off the knot bunnies which are such an intolerable nuisance on the sidewalks, they would incur the gratitude of all pedestrians, especially the ladies, misses and children.

Invalid mothers, weak children, nervous and fretful infants are benefited by using Brown's Iron Bitters. Harmless but efficacious.

The Furious Flames.

The chiefs of the fire departments recommend the great pain-banisher, St. Jacobs Oil. Mathew Brady, Esq., Chief Engineer Fire Department, San Francisco, Cal.; W. A. Hart, Esq., Chief Engineer Fire Department, Portland, Oregon, endorse it. It conquers pain.

A Special Examination.

D. Allen, County Superintendent of Public Schools, says that there will be a special examination of teachers who desire certificates, commencing Thursday, the 30th instant, at 9 o'clock A. M., and for a first grade certificate, will continue two days.

SANDY BOWERS' GRAVE.

A Reminder of the Good Old Days in Washoe.

A ride through Washoe Valley brings to the mind of the Nevada pioneer many an early day incident of the good old times in Washoe.

As you pass through the dilapidated town, and notice the tumble-down condition of its buildings, the sagging awnings which once furnished friendly shelter to the weary prospector, or cooled the head of Tom Fitch, after a hard night's rustle with the tiger, the floor beneath which has many times taken the place of the undertaker's "cooling board," after a shooting or cutting scrape, are all reminders of the flush times of early days. As you drive along through the valley and pass the old Bowers Mansion, once the home of Nevada's Coal Oil Johnny, these reflections become more vivid than in driving through the noiseless street of the once metropolis of early days. On the hillside, immediately back of the "Mansion," lie the remains of poor old Sandy. The grave was dug due east and west, and six feet in depth. Coarse sand and crumbling from the granite mountain-side, hide from view the mortal remains of Bowers. At one time a picket fence protected the spot from cattle and hogs, but one by one the pallings have dropped from the rail, until now about all there is left to mark the place is a little mound of dirt.

Bowers was one of the few who "struck it rich" in early times. Wealth rolled into his pockets in a stream, but he neither had the education nor common sense to enjoy his good fortune. He traveled in foreign lands; bet on horse races and the speed of the steamships carrying across the trackless ocean; furnished money to build his "Mansion" and appointed J. Neely Johnson his business manager. When the structure was completed, the doors swung on silver hinges. France furnished the plate-glass windows; Paris upholsterers made the elegant easy chairs and other things Sandy imagined he wanted, and J. Neely Johnson selected all the standard books which comprised the Bowers library, until the home was as complete as his dividends from the Gould and Curry and Bowers mine could make it. But Bowers, like hundreds of others, struck a porphyry horse and went through the hole when the "bottom" dropped out in '84. About that time, too, the high wines and pound cake began to tell on his physical make-up, and he, too, let go the cable and fell into the unseen beyond. The Masons buried him one cold, windy day in 1886. He died at Gold Hill, and they conveyed his remains to his "Mansion" and deposited them in the grave described above. A few months later, and his estate was bankrupt. His widow, after holding communion with Sandy's ghost and other friendly spooks for a month or two, moved into a little cabin hard by, where she made her living by telling fortunes. A year or two after that she went to Virginia, and held public and private spiritualistic seances. She is now in San Francisco, following the same vocation, by which she manages to gain a precarious living. The little mound and the building known as the Bowers Mansion, now owned by M. C. Lake, is all that is left to indicate that Sandy Bowers ever lived.

He Didn't Think It Was Loaded.

Reuben Pickeral came to Reno early this morning from Pyramid Lake, and reported that his stepfather, Mr. Parsons, accidentally shot himself in the breast yesterday afternoon with a pistol. Dr. Waggoner went out on the Bidwell stage to attend the wounded man. Parsons seems to have been shot some distance from his house, and was found some time afterwards by his stepson. It seems to have been another case of "didn't know it was loaded," there being one charge in the pistol, which he thought empty. The ball entered the right breast back of and below the right nipple, and is likely to prove troublesome.

The Glendale Bridge.

Yesterday the County Commissioners, accompanied by M. J. Smith of this place, who had charge of the work, went down to Glendale and made thorough examination of the recent repairs on the bridge over the Truckee river at that place, and pronounced it a complete job. The main span (104 feet long) is said to be as strong as wood and iron can make it. So much of the old timber was found to be decayed, that the present structure is nearly a new bridge. Contractor Smith is certainly entitled to credit, and he has shown that he can build a bridge as well as he can iron off a wagon or shoe a horse.

Sudden Death of a Miner.

Saturday's Virginia Chronicle says: Michael Price, a miner formerly working in the Chollar workings, died very suddenly at his residence, No. 172 South A street. He had been sick with fever for two or three weeks, but was rapidly convalescing and was able to be out. This morning he took a laxative, and this afternoon about 1 o'clock was seen to faint. A physician was summoned, but the sufferer died before he arrived. The theory of the physician is that a clot of blood—the result of fainting—formed in his heart and killed him.

JUDGE LYNCH IN SALT LAKE.

A Man Shoots the City Marshal and is Hung by a Mob.

Sunday's Salt Lake Tribune says: About noon yesterday a colored man named Sam J. Harvey, said to be a Creole, went into F. H. Grice's restaurant, on Main street, and had some words with the proprietor, and drew a revolver on him. Mr. Grice got the man out of the place, and telephoned to the City Hall for officers to arrest him. Marshal Burt and Charles H. Wilkens, Watermaster, were the only officers there, and they started for the place. Passing up First South to Main, they went south to Grice's place, and he joined them to look for the man. They passed down Main street to Tribune avenue, thence east to Commercial street, and not seeing Harvey, returned to the corner on Main, when Mr. Grice saw Harvey standing on the outside of the walk with a gun in his hand, and pointing him out to the officers, told them to arrest him. Harvey raised his gun, and taking aim at Marshal Burt, said: "Are you an officer?" and fired at the same time. Mr. Wilkens sprang forward and caught Harvey, and wrenched the gun from him, when the assassin drew his revolver and fired, the ball passing through Wilkens' left arm near the elbow, inflicting an ugly flesh wound. Harvey had his revolver against the body of Wilkens, ready to fire again, when E. Able came to his rescue, and took the revolver away from him, and helped throw the man down. The prisoner was taken to the jail, beaten nearly to death by the police, and afterwards turned over to the mob, who immediately took him to a shed stable and hanged him until he was dead. Not satisfied yet, they dragged the dead body about the streets.

Tit for Tat.

J. R. King, late of the V. & T., was presented with the ring the train men bought for him Saturday evening. The clerks of the office gave him a six-shooter a few days ago, and barred the train men out. The clerks were ignored by the latter when they presented Mr. King with the diamond. Charley Thompson, in presenting the token, said that as the clerks had given him a six-shooter, the train men wished to show how highly they appreciated him, and, on behalf of his fellows, desired to present him with a bullseye, that he might practice with his little pistol. The ring was a beautiful solitaire diamond, costing about $150.

The Columbia River Bridge.

A contract for the Northern Pacific railroad bridge across the Columbia river at Portland, Or., has been let. The structure will be 2,500 feet long, and will cost $500,000. Captain J. H. Parker, formerly of Reno, is the superintendent of construction. He will soon be joined by his wife, son-in-law and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Simpson of this place, who will leave here next Friday for Portland.

Going Home.

A special at 5 P. M. Saturday took the San Francisco Club of Philadelphia. No. 1 yesterday morning had nine cars, and the second section 12. A special at 4 P. M. yesterday took Boston Commandery of Philadelphia. No. 1 to-day had a big train, and the St. Bernard train went east at 10 o'clock.

Good Prices.

Ward Bros. of the Sheephead range sold last week 400 head of fat beefs, 3-year-olds and over, for $42 50 per head. They were just off grass, but very fat, choice cattle. Byers and Kelley were the purchasers.

Increased Assessment.

The State Board of Equalization of California adjourned for the year last Saturday evening. The Central Pacific road, with 602.22 miles, is assessed $18,000,000, as against $13,010,520 last year.

A Heavy Contract.
